WAGON CRUSHED DRIVER INJURED

Alfred Land, Bucks County Farmer, Meets with Accident on Ogontz Hill—Trolley Car Ran Into Rear of Wagon—Load of Furniture Spilled—Horses Hurt.

While driving four horses attached to a hay wagon loaded with furniture up Ogontz hill on Tuesday night, Alfred Land, a farmer, of Jamison, Bucks county, was severely injured.

As the hill was slippery Land drove on the trolley track. A car bound for Willow Grove struck the back of the wagon with such force as to knock Land from his seat, tumbling him out on his head. The back of the wagon was smashed and it was otherwise broken. The two horses attached to the pole were badly cut about the flanks and the lead horses ran away. Land was taken to the Jewish hospital, where it was found that he had lacerations of the head, a bad cut over his eye, scalp cut and his hip was injured.

The horses were taken to Tyson's hotel at Ogontz, and Dr. Larzelere, of Jenkintown, took several stitches in their wounds.

The car struck the team with sufficient force to turn it over. The wagon was loaded with the moving of Frank Fillman, who was along with the team, but who had gotten out to walk up the hill. Much of the household goods on the wagon was broken. Fillman was moving to the Land farm, near Jamison.

BACK FROM ALASKA WITH FORTUNE.

A few days ago he came East for a stay with his friends and the friends of his boyhood days. Before returning to the Klondike he is said to have provided amply for his parents for the balance of their lives.

BIDDING GARBAGE COLLECTION

Man Whose Bid Was too High Offers to Pay Council for Privilege.

There must be money in the garbage which is collected in the borough of Ambler.

At the meeting of Town Council of that borough Monday evening Gus. Pfanner, of Dresher, offered to pay the borough $1 a year and give $500 bond if he was favored with the contract for collection for three years.

Town Council did not consider the offer because Pfanner had had an opportunity to bid for the contract and his price was $120, which was $20 higher than that Daniel Marple, so Marple was awarded the contract because his bid came in response to the regular advertisement.

After allowing him to sober up he was discharged with a reprimand by Justice Comly. He said he had come out from the city with a huckster wagon, but could not explain why he was left by his companion.

Nick Chicco, an Italian, was arrested on Tuesday by Officer Robert Hulshizer, charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct. At the hearing it was shown that Commissioner and Mrs. Harold Smith were on their way home from Glenside station when they were bumped into by the prisoner, who looked as if he tried to take a revolver from his pocket. After his arrest he was searched and there was no weapons found upon him. He was fined $7.50 by Justice Comly.

NEW PARK AMUSEMENTS.

Big Scenic Railway to Succeed Ferris Wheel—Other Changes.

Thomas J. Ryan, of Philadelphia, who controls the amusements in Willow Grove Park, visited the park on Wednesday. He at once gave orders for the removal of the big ferris wheel, which has not been used for several years, but has been lighted by colored electric lamps, as an ornamental feature of the park electric display. A refreshment booth and some other buildings will also be torn down. In their place a mammoth scenic railway or roller coaster will be erected. This amusement will extend from the east side of the midway out over a part of the ground leased from Evan T. Kimble. A contract has been let for 1500 concrete foundations for the posts.

Several other improvements are talked of, including a new roof garden restaurant. With the many new amusements, this summer season is expected to be one of the best that the park has had in many years.

R. B. Wenner, of Crestmont, has been given the contract to dismantle the ferris wheel and he must get it out of the way in ten days. He will dispose of the material, quickly.

These projected improvements will mean plenty of work for mechanics and laborers and will mean good times for our merchants.

T. cars had been purchased for them by a New York gentleman, interested in the cause of temperance, and this will be occupied by the Union at a very early date. The card will appear in the Glenside, Hatboro and 4th and 5th street cars. A hearty vote of thanks was given the gentleman for his splendid gift, also to J. BAD ACCIDENT.

William Phipps, Jr., son of William Phipps, while coasting on the mountain scenic railway in the Park, on last Tuesday afternoon, met with a very painful accident, when two bones in one of his limbs were broken. It has been the custom of the school children who attend the school at Willow Grove Heights, to gather at the scenic railway after school breaks up, and enjoy the sport of sledding down the inclines of the railway. The boy had started with his sled down one of the dips and was going up one of the hills, when he missed his grip upon one of the fastenings and his sled began to descend backward, coming in collision with a sled coming in the opposite direction with terrific force. He was conveyed to his home and Dr. William Hannum, of Hatboro, was summoned, and with the assistance of a Professor of the University of Pennsylvania set the injured limb. The break is a bad one and it will be some weeks before the boy will be able to be about. This dangerous practice has been going on for quite a period, notwithstanding that the officials at the Park have cautioned the boys of the risk they are taking to enjoy the sport.

On several occasions they have been driven from the Park by the employes and given fair warning not to continue with this recreation.

LIGHTNING BURNED BARN; KILLED HORSE

Structure on the Farm of Walter C. DeCoursey, Occupied by Forris DeCoursey, Completely Destroyed Early Saturday Morning.

Lightning struck the small barn on the farm at Hartsville occupied by Forris DeCoursey, Saturday morning about 4.20, and it was completely destroyed. A horse and the contents, hay, fodder, straw and harness, were consumed with the building. Mr. DeCoursey had only owned the horse a few days.

It is not known where the bolt struck, for when the family was awakened the whole structure was on fire and all that could be saved was a two-seated wagon.

The barn belonged to Mr. DeCoursey's brother, Walter, and on it there was an insurance of $200 in the Line Lexington Company. There was no insurance on the contents.

QUARTERLY MEETING AT ABINGTON

Friends Gather from Horsham, Byberry, Gwynedd and Quakertown Monthly Meetings—Those Who Took Part.

Abington Quarterly meeting of Friends was held at Abington Friends' meeting house, on Fifth-day, 9th inst. A large number attended, being met at Jenkintown and conveyed to the meeting in coaches. Isaac Wilson was present and spoke acceptably, also Alvin Haines, of Norristown. At the close of the religious meeting, the usual routine business was taken up. All representatives from the various monthly meetings, which compose the quarterly meeting, were present except three, for whom excuses were given. After the reading and consideration of the queries, the minutes of the meeting held at Byberry in 11th month 1910, were taken up. Gwynedd monthly meeting announced that it had been found desirable to omit the last week meeting from Tenth month 1st, 1910, to Sixth month 1st, 1911. Also Gwynedd has changed the time for the preparative meetings, to the close of the meeting for worship, on the First-day morning preceding the monthly meeting. These changes were approved by the quarterly meeting. Two nominating committees were appointed, one to bring forward the names of suitable Friends to serve the meeting as clerk, assistant clerk and correspondent. The other to name four Friends to serve on the representative committee of the yearly meeting. Before closing, Clerk Joseph T. Foulke spoke feelingly of those members of Abington meeting who had entered the higher life since our last meeting in this house one year ago. Israel Hallowell said that while their loss was so deeply felt, he could say that there were a number of new members admitted into membership the past year. A bountiful dinner was served to all at the school house.

PROPOSED LAW TO CONTROL RATE TO BE PAID FOR WATER

Local Authorities May Regulate Charges Subject to Court Decision.

As an outcome of the differences which have existed between the Springfield Water Company and the residents of Montgomery county over the water charges imposed by the public service corporation, Representative Miller, of Norristown, introduced a bill in the House at Harrisburg on Tuesday, which, it is said, is intended to prevent any possibility of water companies generally fixing water rates without approval of the people.

Under the terms of the bill the authorities of any city, borough or township, or any section of any city, borough or township are given the right to reduce and limit water charges imposed by a corporation or water company, if, in the judgment of such authorities, the charges appear extortionate or excessive.

In giving this authority the bill provides for the right of the water company to appeal to the courts if dissatisfied, and the city, township or borough is required to make answer within 30 days from date of service. The court is empowered to make an order for reference to a master or otherwise, as it may deem proper. The company is required to produce all books and papers and records, and its officers, agents and employes are required to appear and submit to cross-examination.

The bill expressly provides that the burden in all cases shall be on the water company to show that the charges, rates or conditions prescribed by the authorities are confiscatory or insufficient.

REAL ESTATE

A FORTUNE IN REALITY SALE.

Louis J. Davis, of Norristown, has just made a fortune in real estate.

Eighteen years ago he acquired for $100 an acre half interest a tract of 55 acres at Haverford, about two miles from Bryn Mawr. He has just sold his interest in the tract for $100,000, or an advance of about $1650 an acre over what he paid for it.

The tract is near the new golf links of the Merion Cricket Club.

TO BEGIN WORK ON NEW CHURCH

Plans have been prepared for the rectory and the basement of the new church of Immaculate Conception Catholic parish, at Price and Sprague streets. The church, when completed, will be one of the largest in Germantown, measuring 136 by 217 feet. The rectory will be three stories, with basement and attic, 49 by 56 feet in dimensions. The buildings are designed in the Romanesque style and each will be of dressed Port Deposit granite. The completed group will cost, it is estimated, about $250,000.

ORPHANAGE SITE BOUGHT.

Odd Fellow Managers Take Title to Tract on City Line.

The board of managers of the Odd Fellows' Orphanage took title on Thursday from David G. Alsop to a plot of 10¾ acres at the northeast corner of Ogontz avenue and City Line, in the Forty-second ward, Philadelphia. The consideration was $42,696, or at the rate of $4000 an acre. The purchase of the land was made possible by a gift of $100,000 by a now deceased member of the order, and with the proceeds of the sale of the present orphanage at Twentieth and Ontario streets, it is planned to erect a group of modern buildings to cost upwards of $150,000.

Druckenmiller, Stackhouse & Williams are preparing plans for a two and a half story residence, 38x36 feet, at Langhorne for Mrs. Welsh.

An extensive business block is to be built on Main street, Lansdale, by R. C. Lownes, adjoining the Hotel Norwood.

Joseph Hood has sold through Howard McCalley, to Louis Bremer, the stone residence 216 Summit avenue, Jenkintown, lot 109 feet by 185 feet. The consideration is not disclosed.

The 10 acre lot belonging to the heirs of Bridget Hennessey, situate in Newtown township, has been sold by Horace G. Reeder, to C. D. Crosson, possession to be given on April 1st next.

P. J. Callahan, of Bristol, has bought the hotel at Langhorne station of the estate of John S. Wright, deceased. Since the death of Wright the place has been managed by C. Taylor Knight. The purchaser will take possession next spring.

Horace G. Reeder, as agent for the heirs of Jennie Y. Cadwallader, deceased, has sold the house and lot of land at the corner of State and Penn streets, Newtown, for several years occupied by William A. Smith, as a tin and stove store, to D. Russell Bond, of Newtown, and William J. Bond, of Princeton, N. J. Possession to be given April 1st next. The same agent has also sold for William A. Smith his business to the same parties who will take possession of the business on February 15th and make improvements to the buildings and erect a garage on the premises where they will enlarge the present business and engage in the sale and repair of automobiles, etc.

The contract for the alterations and additions to the premises located at the southwest corner of Butler avenue and Main streets, Ambler, has been awarded by Henry C. Biddle to Contractor C. J. Kemmerer. The present building will be arranged for two stores about 20 feet wide and 46 feet deep, each will have large glass bulks extending entirely across the front; the other portion of the present building will be used for dwelling purposes and can either be rented in connection with the stores or as separate dwellings. Each dwelling portion will have a dining room, kitchen and pantry on the first floor, a living room, three chambers and bath on the second floor and three chambers on the third floor. The present first floor which is about 4 feet 6 inches above the pavement, will be lowered to the street level and will be a great improvement over the present arrangement. The building will be arranged for both gas and electric lighting and either a hot water or steam heating system will be installed. The work was designed by C. E. Schermerhorn & Watson K. Phillips, associate architects.

A COLONIAL AT MODERATE COST.

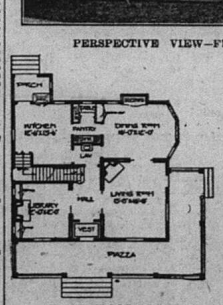
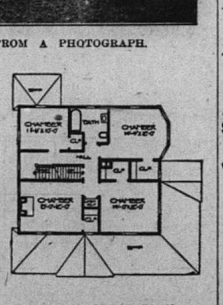
PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.



FIRST FLOOR PLAN.



SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

A design that has been duplicated a number of times, popular on account of the convenience of arrangement and the many comforts provided for. The exterior is of simple colonial design. From a broad piazza that continues around two sides of the house one enters a large vestibule, thence into a central hall from which the stairway leads to the second story. There is a library twelve feet square at the left of the hall and a living room about 14 by 17 at the right, all connected by sliding doors. The dining room has a built in sideboard and a china closet. There are four chambers and a bathroom upstairs. Finish in first story, red oak, with birch floors; in second story, pine to paint, with birch floors. The house is thirty-four and a half feet wide and thirty and a half feet deep. Cost to build, exclusive of heating and plumbing, $4,200.

By special arrangement with me the editor of this paper will furnish one complete set of plans and specifications of design No. 307 for $25.

LITTLE ZOURI'S VALENTINE.

A Child's Message of Love That Brought Abiding Peace.

By FRANK H. SWEET.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

It was the 13th of February. The sun had come out and made things look very bright and happy, and in the southern country its light was so warm and pleasant that three little girls had come out among the grass and trees to write their valentines. These girls were Seth Granberry's three little states, as they were called.

The two Granberry brothers, Seth and Josiah, were farmers, and their large farms joined. The brothers were twins.

They were married on the same day. There had been a sort of agreement between them that whenever a baby girl came to the household of either she should be given the name of a state in the Union.

So it came about that when some years had gone by there were six little states, three in each family. The boys did not count in this union, for it would not do to call a boy Texas or Mississippi.

Then came the time when Seth and Josiah ceased to be twins in spirit, for they had a serious quarrel about the planting of a division stake and the ownership of three or four feet of land. Seth, the more self willed of the two, had planted the stake where he pleased, and Joe had submitted, but from that day the brothers had not spoken to each other, and the six little states, who loved each other, had been separated.

Seth's Zouri, whose real name was Missouri, had just declared that she would send a valentine to Uncle Joe.

"I met him down at the branch the other day," she said, "and he talked to me real nice. I felt sorry for him, because he said that Tennessee could never go without crutches any more."

Lous'any and Georgia said they were quite sure that Zouri would be whipped if she did not keep away from Uncle Joe's folks and stop sending valentines there. But Zouri was the youngest of the three and not old enough to be very cautious. Besides, she had a little curly red head and her father's own willful spirit.

She went on painfully writing the words of her valentine:

"Deer Unker Joe, I luv you. I wish you wud cum over and set on the uther side of the chimly like you use to. I'a wont let enubody set there now. im sorry Tenny has to go on crutches. frum your loving valentine."

"Tain't right, Zouri," Lous'any said. "Pa'll punish you for it."

"Besides, who'll take it over to Uncle Joe?" asked Georgia.

"I will," said Zouri as she shook back her red curls and picked up her sunbonnet from the grass.

Zouri was so young—scarcely eight years old—and so much accustomed to being petted that such opposition as this hurt her feelings deeply. But it did not shake her resolution.

"WHAT IF IT WAS YOU, ZOURI?"

She had written the valentine that she had meant from the beginning to write. She left Georgia and Louisiana now and ran, pattering her bare feet over the grass, to the fence that separated the yard from the roadway.

"She's gone to the field where pa is," Georgia said as she watched Zouri disappear down the roadway.

"Yes, and, what's more," Louisiana answered, "she'll make pa say she can up and do anything she wants to."

They were right in guessing that Zouri had gone to find her father. She knew that he was somewhere in the fields, looking about his farm and planning the spring sowing.

Every few minutes her voice rang out in a loud call, "Poppy, where are you?"

At last from a distance she heard the answer: "Hello, Zouri! Is that you? I'm down in the potato field!"

When she reached him he placed her on the highest rail of the fence, while he stood beside her and listened. There had always been a strong bond of sympathy between him and this little girl, perhaps because she was a chip of the old block."

"What's the matter with poppy's little gal?" he asked.

"It's Lous'any and Georgia. They've been bothering me."

Zouri's cheeks were flushed and her eyes bright.

Seth looked at her for a moment then he took her sunbonnet from her hand and placed it on her head.

"What have they been bothering you about, honey?"

Zouri quietly took the sunbonnet off as she answered: "Because I said I was going to do something you didn't want me to. But I just have to do it, poppy; it would make me feel so bad if I didn't."

Seth's face looked grave.

"Well, honey," he said soberly, "did you come away out here to get me to let you do a thing after I had told you you couldn't?"

"No, poppy," she said. "I just come to get you to make Georgia and Lous'any let me alone and stop being mean to me."

"Zouri, is it anything bad you want to do?"

"No, it ain't."

"What is it, honey?"

"I can't tell yet. It's a secret."

"Will you tell poppy some time?"

"Yes, if you ain't mean to me, like Lous'any and Georgia."

He was silent. She slipped from the fence and took his hand, and they started together across the fields toward home.

"Zouri, put on your sunbonnet. You'll catch cold."

Zouri obeyed. "Poppy," she said, "what did you and Uncle Joe get angry about? Did he treat you mean when you wanted to do anything?"

Seth started. Joe had been in his mind more than once that day, because it was the anniversary of the planting of the stake, and Seth had stood for half an hour by the side of the stake recalling the circumstances connected with it.

"No, Zouri; Joe wasn't exactly mean to me. I reckon he was better'n I was when it comes to that."

"Then I ain't going to be mad with him," she answered, and the sunbonnet came off again. "Anyhow, Tennessee's got to go on crutches all her life, and I'm sorry." For once Zouri was almost crying.

"Is that a fact, Zouri? Little Tenny on crutches—all her life too! What if it was you, Zouri?"

There was no answer, and they walked home the rest of the way in silence.

St. Valentine's day was clear and beautiful.

Soon after dinner, without a word to any one, Zouri put on a clean dress and, hanging her sunbonnet on her arm, started away on her mission.

Seth had been watching her all day. He saw her start from home, but said nothing.

She reached the point where the road crossed the head of the old mill pond. She knew that Uncle Joe's was not far beyond. But Zouri had never been very brave about crossing the pond. There was only a narrow plank way across, and it seemed so near the water, and so many fishes and noisy frogs and other queer creatures lived right under this plank, and the water looked so quiet and dark.

When Zouri reached this point in her journey she stopped a moment, a little frightened, and was almost ready to turn back and go home. But she did not do this. She began to sing, and as she sang she ran lightly across the plank.

Zouri was on Uncle Joe's farm now and hoped to find him in some field not far away. As she went along the roadway, looking to the right and left, she saw on a little rise of land the figure of a man. He was standing between her and the sinking sun, and a warm, soft light shone over his face.

"Uncle Joe! Oh, Uncle Joe!" she called.

"Land sakes, if that ain't Seth's little Zouri!" he muttered as he started toward her.

"No; don't come yet!" she called again. "I ain't ready!"

He stopped and stood waiting.

"What on the earth's brought Zouri over here? I'll bet Seth don't know it. That child's just the apple of Seth's eye. Well, if she can get around him there's something in her."

"Uncle Joe, are you listening?"

"Yes, honey; talk on."

"Well, I've put it in that old hollow tree down here. When I'm gone you go and get it. Goodby, Uncle Joe."

"Goodby, Zouri. Can't you wait a bit?"

He watched her sunny little figure, the clean, fresh dress, the dangling sunbonnet and the soft dancing curls as she flew along toward home again.

"Well, I reckon I'll have to see what it is," he said.

He walked slowly to the edge of the field, vaulted over the rail fence and crossed the road to where the old hollow tree stood. He stooped and put his hand within, and then he drew it out with a shamefaced air.

"Just one of Zouri's jokes, I reckon. She'll think I'm an old fool to come down here at all."

Then he leaned against the tree, with one hand resting on its trunk. "Just four years ago yesterday since Seth and I stopped speaking, and this is the first time one of his family's been on my land, to my knowing. Not another one of them would dare to come but Zouri."

He shuffled around again to the hollow. "I reckon I'll try once more," he said.

This time he dropped upon his knees, put his arm far into the opening and felt carefully around. He found it, all crumpled and not very clean. Then he slowly opened and read it—the little scrawl that had cost Zouri so much to write.

It was like a message from Seth, and all the old time love for his brother came into Joe's heart as he read Zouri's valentine.

"I'm sorry Tenny has to go on crutches." Here was the great sorrow of Joe's life, for Tenny was to him what Zouri was to Seth, and all her young strength had gone and left her a patient, suffering little cripple.

So he stood there and wept over Zouri's tender words. "God bless her for sending it," he murmured.

As he stood there he heard her calling from far down the road:

"Uncle Joe! Oh, Uncle Joe!"

He turned and saw Zouri running toward him, somewhat pale and frightened. He stooped and held open his arms, and she rushed into them. Then he kissed her silently.

"I was afraid to cross the plank at the pond," she said.

"Never mind, Zouri," he said; "I'll take you over the pond."

He held her gently in his arms and carried her as easily as if she had been a baby.

"Did you get it, Uncle Joe?" she whispered.

"Yes, honey; it was the best little letter that ever I had. How'd you happen to send it, Zouri?"

"'Cause I wanted to after you told me about Tenny, and I ain't angry with you any more, Uncle Joe. I told poppy so too."

The day was drawing to a beautiful close. All along the side of the water and in the woods and fields the sounds of night could be heard as the shadows of twilight grew longer and the last rosy light of the day melted into darkness.

Zouri slipped from Uncle Joe's arms to the ground after they had safely passed the pond, but she held his hand, and he saw that he must take her home, or at least within sight of the house.

"IS IT YOU, JOE?"

"Zouri," he asked, "did your father know you were going to bring me that valentine?"

"No. I didn't tell him what it was. He knew I was going to do something he didn't want me to, but Georgia and Lous'any knew, and they told me I'd be whipped for it. But I won't."

They were drawing near home now. The lighted candles and lamps shone with a cheerful light in the darkness.

"I'll leave you at the big gate, Zouri. You won't be afraid then, I reckon."

Zouri did not answer, and Joe felt a pain at his heart as the thought came that, after all, the child did not care whether he went farther or not.

"Here he comes!" she cried suddenly. "He's hunting for me, I reckon. Now he'll make you come in and sit on the other side of the chimly!"

Yes; there was Seth coming along the road to meet them. Joe pressed Zouri's hand tightly in his and was silent.

Seth called out in the darkness, "Zouri, is that you?"

"Yes, poppy, me and Uncle Joe. He brought me home."

Seth stopped an instant and then came nearer.

"Is it you, Joe?"

"Yes, Seth; me and Zouri." Joe felt the need of companionship just then.

"Shake hands with Uncle Joe, poppy! He's coming in to sit in that chair across the chimly from you. I asked him to."

Seth held out his hand and said; "Come, Joe; that chair's been empty these four years. I reckon you'd better come in and use it tonight. Zouri's got better sense than her father."

"I told him 'bout Tenny, Uncle Joe, and he's sorry, too," said Zouri.

Seth laid one hand on Joe's shoulder, while with the other he led little Zouri toward the house. Both armchairs were filled that evening, and a little curly headed girl sat first on the knees that occupied one chair and then on those that occupied the other until at last she fell asleep in Uncle Joe's arms and was carried to bed with his kiss and blessing resting on her forehead.

"There ain't many like her, Seth," he said. "You ought to be mighty thankful you've got Zouri. I'd lay down and die this minute if I could see my Tenny strong and hearty like her."

Then there was a pause.

"Did you suspect what she was up to, Seth?"

"I wasn't right certain, but it had something to do with you or Tenny. But Zouri's queer, and when she sets out to do a thing there's no stopping her. So I generally keep still and wait till she's done it before I say much."

"Did you ever know anybody else like that, Seth?"

Then there was a laugh—a laugh brought back from the past years of love and brotherly kindness—and it was full of promise for the years to come.

In a few days there was a reunion at Seth's home of the six little states.

They were all there, Missouri heading the list.

I do not know if other states have been added to this union since, but I do know that Zouri's valentine brought back a peace that has been abiding.

SEVEN YEARS OF MISERY

All Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Sikeston, Mo.—"For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month and so weak I could hardly walk. I cramped and had backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do my own housework, hoe my garden, and milk a cow. I can entertain company and enjoy them. I can visit when I choose, and walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the month. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl."—Mrs. DORA BERTRAM, Sikeston, Mo.

The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

It is more widely and successfully used than any other remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means had failed. Why don't you try it?

CHURCHVILLE W. C. T. U.

Women Discuss Temperance and Advocate Plans to Fight Alcoholic Interests.

At the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Yerkes, of Southampton, on the afternoon of the fourth of February, the regular business session of the Churchville W. C. T. U. was held, with a program of unusual interest.

Mrs. Emily Yerkes presided with Miss J. Hobensack, secretary. "Live to be a Blessing," was sung with Miss Hobensack as accompanist.

Rev. Anderson, of the Baptist church led in devotion, after which a thought was given to the sick and absent members, a loving greeting was sent with a bouquet of roses to the flower mission superintendent, Miss Emilie Hart.

Mrs. Annie C. Finney, county superintendent of Scientific Temperance Instruction, spoke of the many teachers in the county, who have signed the pledge, thereby becoming a good example to their pupils. Under the guidance of State, county and local superintendents, the essay work will again be taken up and prizes offered for best essays on "The Harm in a Glass of Grape Juice" as the topic.

All school children are allowed to compete. Southampton township will receive prizes from the Churchville Union.

Mrs. Yerkes reported the year's effort in this department. Schools have been visited, teachers and directors cordially endorsing the movement, and, at Southampton have consented to the W. C. T. U. using the school room for its meetings. This proves that the worth of the lessons is appreciated.

For best lesson tests in physiology in eighth grade, prizes were awarded Grace Hoagland and Roy Yerkes, of Southampton, and Anna Jackson, of Feasterville.

A large placard was displayed by Mrs. Finney where on was shown the relative food values of a barrel of beer, and a barrel of flour, proving that beer has really no value as a food.

An article on the present license system or Brook's law was read by Miss Mary Saurman, and on L. T. by work and its importance as a factor in preparing for efficient life work, by Mrs. Finney and Miss Laura Rhoades. All papers were discussed and a desire expressed that they be sent for published. The president spoke of the governor of New Hampshire, who is a woman.

The county's 26th annual convention will occur at Langhorne on the fifteenth of April with Mrs. Fessenden, of Mass. as the speaker.

M. A. Lownes spoke of the bill recently introduced in congress by the presentative Bartholet, of Missouri, in favor of the restoration of the army canteen. To prove that women are in touch with proceedings at Washington, it was ordered that a protest against the canteen be sent by the society to Hon. J. A. T. Hall, chairman of the House Committee on Military Affairs. Time and trial have shown that many arguments against the army canteen are worthless. Copies of the school law, sentiments and gems for the school room with other literature was distributed, while methods of work were discussed.

The March meeting will convene at the home of Mrs. Emma Leedom on the fourth inst. with a Willard program. A cheering item told by visitor viz.: "No liquor of any kind is allowed to enter the beautiful Masonic Temple in Philadelphia, and its doors always close at midnight." "Bless Be the Tie That Binds," was sung and a profitable meeting closed with the benediction which was preceded by a cheering address by Rev. Anderson, for which he received the hearty thanks of the ladies. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Rev. B. Franklin Palst, pastor of a church at Langhorne, has declined the call to the pastorate of the Hope church, Plainfield, N. J.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Women in Local News.

Ardmore women have taken to bowling, and on several assigned evenings each week there are now spirited contests in the Young Men's Christian Association alleys.

The girls of the West Chester State Normal School conducted a county fair in minature in the building for the benefit of the Young Women's Christian Association.

Miss Vera Warner, of the Baptist Training School, Philadelphia, made an excellent address in the Doylestown Baptist church, Sunday, telling of the work of the school.

Mrs. Jemima E. Horne, widow of Rev. Dr. A. R. Horne, the noted educator and Lutheran theologian, formerly pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Doylestown, died Saturday at Allentown, aged 77 years.

Mrs. Catharine Tokoy, a Polish woman, thirty-one years old, was shot to death last Sunday night in her home, Almond and Orthodox streets, Bridesburg. The police are seeking the woman's husband, Metro, who is charged with the crime.

Teachers and pupils of the Harmer School, East Haines street, tendered a reception in the school building to Miss Susan Snyder, of Chestnut Hill, who has been a teacher for fifty years. Miss Snyder is now in charge of the first grade primary in the Harmer School. The other teachers of the school presented a gold watch and a chain to Miss Snyder, Miss Ida Carloland, the principal, making the presentation address.

In disposing of an estate of $18,000, Elizabeth Brown, late of Prospect avenue, Chestnut Hill, gives it to her sister, Phebe, for life. At her death $5000 is to revert to the Presbyterian Hospital, $1000 each to the Foreign and Home Missions of the Presbyterian church and $500 to the McAll Mission, one half of the residue going to her brother, J. Tabele Brown, and the other half to nephews and nieces with reversions to the charities named.

A journey across the continent that is to end in a wedding will begin Saturday evening when Miss Elizabeth Judd, 1501 Orthodox street, Frankford, boards the 8.40 train at Broad street station. Accompanied by her grandfather, the young woman will make San Francisco her destination, arriving there late Thursday night. Robert M. Bird, formerly of Philadelphia, will meet the couple and will marry Miss Judd the following day.

A left-over of canned string beans may be rendered tasty by slightly frying and serving very hot. Drain off any liquor, cut the beans into strips of nice size and put into a frying pan with a tablespoonful of butter. Add three slices of lean bacon cut into dainty little strips, season with salt and fry until the bacon is crisp and brown. No one, unless particularly keen of memory, will suspect what is impolitely termed a "rehash."

TIMELY RECIPES

SPLIT PEA CROQUETTES.

Soak half a box of split green peas for three or four hours. Bring to a boil on the fire and when boiling take off the scum and add one-half pound salt pork, one onion stuck with a single clove and one small carrot. Cover pan; put it in the oven and cook three hours. Now remove the pork, onion and carrot, rub the pulse through a fine sieve, put back into a clean saucepan, season with salt and a pinch of sugar, add two ounces of butter, four egg yolks, put aside to cool, shape into croquettes, dip in egg and bread crumbs and fry to a dainty brown in deep fat.

WAFFLES.

Sift together a lightly measured pint of flour and half a teaspoonful of salt. Rub in a desertspoonful of butter. Separate four eggs, beat the whites until they will stand alone and the yolks until lemon colored and thick. Add the yolks to the flour mixture alternately with sweet milk until a pint of milk has been used. Lastly fold in the whites and bake in a hot, well greased waffle iron. A waffle iron should fit closely on the range and should be heated on one side, turned and heated on the other, and then thoroughly greased before being filled with the batter. In filling put a tablespoonful of the batter in each compartment near the centre of the iron, cover and the mixture will spread to just fill the iron. If the iron has been heated the waffles will be ready to have the iron turned almost as soon as filled and covered. When done lift on to a large hot plate and serve at once without piling as this steams and softens them, and waffles should be crisp to be perfect. Either pastry or bread flour may be used in their making.

CATSKILL CHICKEN-OYSTER PIE.

Melt a tablespoonful of butter in a deep baking dish and scatter over it cracker or bread crumbs. Add a layer of chicken meat picked up fine, then a layer of oysters well seasoned with salt, pepper and butter. Alternate oysters and chicken, seasoning each layer until all is used. Pour over the whole the oyster liquor, to which has been added one well-beaten egg in a cup of milk. Put bits of butter on top and bake from forty to sixty minutes in a steady oven. An excellent way to utilize left-overs, and one-half hour is long enough to bake one layer of oysters between two of chicken.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS

Under a ruling of the Post Office Department, at Washington, which went into effect on January 1st., 1908, publishers of weekly newspapers are not permitted to extend credit to a subscriber for a longer period than one year. Names of subscribers who have not paid their subscription for a period of one year or more must be taken off the list or the publisher is liable to a penalty.

We are therefore sending out bills to all subscribers who owe a year or more, and have instructed our collector, Edwin Kirk, to call this ruling to the attention of those from whom he collects.

Prompt settlement is urged, or accounts must be placed in the hands of attorneys.

We have no choice in this matter as much as we would be willing to favor certain cases.

The SPIRIT must comply with this ruling of the United States Government.

THE ORGANIZING INTO IMprovement Associations of the residents and property owners living along the line of the Northeast branch of the Reading railroad from Glenside to Ivyland is one of the important moves now being made.

Some time back, an association of this kind was formed at Roslyn, and they have accomplished much. On Thursday of this week associations were formed and officers elected at both Hatboro and Willow Grove, and it is reported on good authority that an association is to be formed at Ivyland. The combined population living along this railroad is in the neighborhood of 7,000 and when these organizations are all completed and combined in one general purpose, that of asking the Reading Railway Company to give better service, their weight will be felt.

The Reading Company has ignored for years all requests made by individuals or business firms and their method of operating the North East branch has dragged down and cheapened all property valuations along the line. Trains have been taken off and a poor schedule is maintained on this branch of their system.

Let every man interested in this good cause join an organization in his neighborhood and help with the good work that is to be undertaken by these associations in the near future. It is only by the combined efforts of all that we may hope to bring the railroad to a full understanding of its duty to this section, naturally one of the finest in the vicinity of Philadelphia.

Quite a large congregation turned out to the special C. E. day exercises at Carmel church on last Sunday evening. Rev. Walter H. Waygood, formerly pastor of the church, was the principal speaker. Mr. Smith is building a handsome Colonial house at the corner of Roberts and Lynnwood avenues, Glenside.

The Boys' Brigade of Carmel church enjoyed another hike last Saturday afternoon, when they journeyed to the woods on Jenkintown road. They established a camp at that place, appointed scouts and guards and had manoeuvers, drills and scouting parties. This not only is excellent exercise for the boys but has them under the charge of excellent supervision during their outings and teaches them the lesson of obedience. They will shortly begin signal work, which will be of great benefit in after life. Their band now numbers nine pieces, under the leadership of A. R. Smith.

There is talk of appealing to the commissioners of Abington and Cheltenham townships to create an ordinance calling for sidewalks along Mt. Carmel avenue, north from Heist's lumber yard to Edge Hill road. The walking on this particular thoroughfare is very bad at times and the number of children that use this street make it imperative that sidewalks of decent description be laid to accommodate them, as it is dangerous to walk in the street, owing to the number of teams and automobiles that travel that way. This is more especially noticed on Sunday while going to and from Carmel church to Glenside.

A penny saved is a penny earned, but it is frequently at the expense of a dollar's worth of time.

Many a man robs Peter to pay Paul and makes them both suffer by the transaction.

Lots of people are bubbling over with enthusiasm, but bubbles don't accomplish much.

"ADVERTISING IN THE SPIRIT PAYS"

The PUBLIC SPIRIT of Hatboro, Pa., is the best paper in which to advertise a public sale of personal property. Why the SPIRIT? Because of its advantageous location and widespread circulation among the well-to-do class who have money with which to buy. It is not only read by all the people in a wide scope of country with Hatboro as a centre, but it goes to dealers in Philadelphia, Germantown and elsewhere. If you want to reach people who attend sales, advertise in the SPIRIT.

The SPIRIT job department turns out attractive posters, on good paper, with catchy display and cuts, at moderate prices, for prompt work.

We will make an advance announcement of the date, place and character of coming sales under this head free, if we are given both the poster printing and the sale is advertised in our paper. In all other cases the charge for advance announcements will be 50 cents. Secure your date early so as not to conflict with other sales in the same locality.

Old-fashioned things have their uses in the way of bringing up family recollections.

One of the most frequently asked questions is, "What is the best thing to do?"

HATBORO HOME HAPPENINGS

BUSINESS MEN'S ASSOCIATION

An Organization for the Promotion of the Best Interests of Hatboro—List of Those Who have Joined.

The meeting to complete the organization of the Improvement Association, held in the firemen's room in Town hall on Thursday night, drew a large attendance, and much interest is being taken in the formation of the association.

President Dr. Thomas Reading was in the chair and Warren Cornell, secretary, read the minutes.

The first business was the adopting of the constitution and by-laws. It was decided to call the new organization "The Business Men's Association of Hatboro," and the object of the association is to promote the business interests and general welfare of Hatboro. Members are residents and property owners of Hatboro and vicinity. The dues are $1 for entrance fee and 25 cents per month. The money to be expended for advertising Hatboro by different forms and for the employment of attorneys if necessary to fight railroads or any corporation interfering with the welfare of the community.

The president and secretary having been elected at the former meeting, it was decided to elect a board of directors, consisting of five and a treasurer. William F. Wilson was selected treasurer without opposition, but there was a contest for the board of directors, there being nine or ten nominations made. Those chosen were Alfred Young, W. W. Wilgus, Charles Deckelman, Thomas Cromley and Penrose Robinson.

The chair appointed a special committee, known as publicity committee, composed of Penrose Robinson, Paul Jones and Warren Cornell, with instructions to look up stationery, etc., at once. The regular standing committees, which are to be auditing, new industries, and municipal, will be appointed by the chair at the next meeting, when it will be definitely known how many members there will be in the association. There are now 33 charter members, and $56.75 was paid into the treasury at this meeting. This being the $1 entrance fee and 75 cents, three months' dues in advance.

Every business man in the borough should be a member of this organization, as the results and objects are entirely for the welfare of the community without gain to any persons, and it is hoped that those who have not already joined will do so by the next meeting, which will be next Thursday night. It was decided to hold weekly meetings while organizing, after which monthly meetings on the second Thursday evening of each month.

Those who joined at this meeting were as follows:

William Wilson, J. M. Walmsley, Thomas B. Cromley, H. J. Morris, R. C. Godfrey, N. E. Walton, R. Hockman, Norman Kerns, Alfred Young, Paul Jones, C. C. Moore, George C. Yerkes, Albert Krewson, S. B. Larzelere, B. F. James Kerns, E. J. Amber, S. H. Wall, Samuel Gehman, W. W. Wilgus, William Brandreth, George Corwell, Charles Goessler, George W. Powell, J. N. Watson, John Reading, F. E. Snively, Dr. Thomas Reading, Warren M. Cornell, Charles Deckelman, Elmer H. Carl, O. E. C. Robinson, Penrose Robinson.

The monthly meeting of the W. K. Bray Lodge, F. and A. M., was held on last Wednesday night.

Charles D. Schull is reported to have purchased a thirty-acre farm in New Jersey, where he will shortly move.

Mrs. Andrew Lentz will sell at public sale her household goods before March 1. S. B. Larzelere will have charge of the sale.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen D. Yerkes and son, of Millville, N. J., were recent guests of his mother, Mrs. Joseph B. Yerkes and family.

Dr. William Lentz, who moved from here to a newly built house at Atlantic City in the fall, has sold the house at an increased price and will shortly give possession.

A new house has been staked out by George W. Flavell to be erected for A. H. Slack. This house adjoins one just under roof being built by Mr. Flavell, for E. J. Amber. Both houses face on Moreland avenue.

Mrs. Sarah Houpt, formerly of Jarrettown, but recently a resident of Norristown, is very ill at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Yerkes, this borough. She has been sick for several weeks. She is the widow of Charles Houpt.

A meeting of the Athletic Association will be held in the Town hall on next Monday evening. All those interested in the development of the association are requested to be present. Plans will be considered for the coming base ball season.

Henry Hungerford was called suddenly to the bedside of his sick father at Binghamton, N. Y., last Wednesday. Before his arrival his father passed away and was buried on Sunday. Mr. Hungerford's stepmother was buried one week previous to his father's death. His father was sick only four days.

Quite a number of the residents of the borough journeyed to the Abington police station on Tuesday night, when the case of Mrs. Charles Smith, of this borough, against her husband for non-support, was given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Williams. Smith, who is now driving an ash cart, and resides near Rockledge, had been arrested by Officer James Kenny, of the Abington force. The testimony brought out at the hearing made a bad showing for the morality of the Smiths, and was exceedingly disgusting even to be heard in police court. Smith offered to pay his wife $3 per week, although he said he only received $3.50 per week and his board. Mrs. Smith would not accept this settlement of the case and Squire Williams held the prisoner in $500 bail for his appearance at court. Bail was furnished. Smith was then served with a warrant, sworn out by a colored girl, Ida May Warner, charging Smith with improper conduct toward her, while she worked in the Smith household. This case is to be heard next Tuesday evening.

NEW FIRE APPARATUS

Hatboro Promised Lower Fire Insurance Rates if Chemical Engine is Secured—The Plan Proposed—Contributions Solicited.

The following letter, gotten out by the Enterprise Fire Company, is to be sent to every property owner in Hatboro and those holding property in the borough and living outside.

The reason for this is that if the rate of fire insurance is lowered on property in Hatboro it will benefit every one owning property in its limits. Paul Jones, president of council and president of the Firemen's Association of the Lower End of Montgomery County, has taken the matter up with the underwriters of Philadelphia, and has their assurance that if a chemical engine, such as described below, is purchased, a reduction in premiums from ten to twenty cents per hundred on five years will be made. He also stated that Hatboro's record was especially good as there had only been one building completely destroyed by fire since Hatboro had a water works and fire department, and that if Hatboro Fire Company had its proposed new apparatus it would be as well equipped as any or perhaps in better shape to fight fire than any other company in Montgomery county.

It is reported that there have been five gentlemen who have already shown their willingness to contribute $25 each and although $5 is the smallest amount mentioned in the letter, contributions of $1 or less will be gladly received.

Following is the appeal: The Enterprise Fire Company of Hatboro is making a very strong effort to bring its equipment up to such a standard as will warrant the Insurance Underwriters in giving the property owners of Hatboro a lower fire insurance rate and class us an "A" risk instead of a "B" which means a reduction of 20c. per hundred on a five-year policy.

In order to bring about a lower insurance rate we need, in addition to the steam fire engine and other apparatus now owned by the company, a combination chemical and hose wagon, to secure an up-to-date wagon of above character to suit our purpose we will need $700.

To accomplish our purpose and secure this much needed additional equipment, we must have financial assistance of a substantial character, and to show how easily this can be done we are asking our friends for the following contributions:

10 subscriptions	@	$25 each	$250.00
10 "	@	$20 "	200.00
50 "	@	$ 5 "	250.00
Total,			$700.00

As a mater of reduced insurance and better fire protection should appeal to every one of our citizens, we therefore appeal to all property owners and persons in and around our borough having insurable property to help us.

Remember the firemen are always at your service in cass of fire and will do their utmost to save your property without thought of any compensation.

A committee consisting of the entire board of trustees of the company will have the matter in charge and purchase the new equipment, and subscriptions can be made to any one of the undersigned which will be promptly acknowledged through the columns of the Spirit. William F. Wilson, C. C. Moore, Warren M. Cornell, J. Newton Watson, C. E. Goessler, Penrose Kerns, Harry Wilson, Samuel S. Gehman, Paul Jones, F. E. Snively, H. E. Hoffman, John S. Leidy.

THE NEIGHBORS.

"The Neighbors," Hatboro's woman's club, held a meeting on Saturday, February 4th, at 2.45 p. m. Mary Colby Harper gave a vocal solo, followed by an encore. Mrs. P. P. Gheen read a paper on "The Ideal Kitchen." Mrs. Henrietta Kinsey and Miss Jennie Saunders read papers on "Good Taste in Housefurnishing." The latter paper was written by Mrs. Lillian Jarrett. Mrs. Anna McMullen read an article on "Pure Food." This was followed by a paper on "Fletcherism," by Miss Helen Watson. Mary Warner gave current topics. There was considerable discussion of the excellent papers. The president announced that it would be well for every member of the club to write to our representatives at Harrisburg in reference to the "School Code," desiring them to vote for it, as it is an excellent measure, and individual letters would have more effect than signing a petition. On the question being asked by the president if anyone present could give some points of the school code Miss Edith Hallowell did so in an interesting manner.

HORSHAM FARMERS' CLUB

The Horsham Farmers' Club will hold the February meeting at the home of Dr. and Mrs. William Hannum, this borough, this Saturday, 11th inst. Supper at 6 p. m. The following questions will be discussed:

"The most profitable method of employing the stormy days of winter on the farm." Newton E. Wood.

"Is there any advantage in having three horses abreast for hauling in the country and to the city?" William J. Hallowell.

"When and where was the first illuminating gas made in the United States?" Henrietta S. Kinsey.

"What is the most serviceable kind of interior wall decoration for the living rooms of the home?" Anna M. Watson.

"One new farm implement to be bought for next year's work, what shall it be?" Charles S. Paxson.

"Does actual injury to milk result from keeping cows and horses quartered under the same roof?" Phineas P. Gheen.

To talk on current topics. Mrs. Hannum, Walter Buckman.

To Mr. and Mrs. Albert Frankenfield of Lehman avenue, a daughter. The baby is said to weigh 12 pounds. Both mother and child are doing well.

This property is to be made into two stores with dwellings over and to be up-to-date in all appointments. On the first floor are to be large store rooms, while the second floor is to be in the form of flats, containing parlor, bed-rooms, bath room and kitchen. Work has been started and if the weather will permit, it is the intention of having the stores ready for occupancy early in March.

A very large percentage of the property owners in Hatboro have received notices from the State Board of Health that they are polluting indirectly the natural water course of a tributary of the Pennypack creek, or the creek itself, necessitating a large expense to the property owners for digging cess-pools and other arrangeme for drainage. It seems very easy for the State Board of Health to send a party of eight or ten men to a section of the country and have them order the property owner to spend $25 to $100 in changing drainage, but it is not as easy for the property owner to get the money to make the changes, nor in some instances for low lying properties, do cess-pools seem practical. The State Board should furnish reasonable plans for the changes desired.

BREAKING HOME TIES

Rev. and Mrs. Horace P. Craig Leave Churchville Church After Twenty Years' Service.

The Rev. Horace P. Craig, called a meeting of his consistory on January fourth, 1911, and presented his resignation as pastor of the Reformed church of North and Southampton, Pa.

The consistory and congregation deeply regret that the impaired health of Mr. Craig compelled this action, and that the ties that have bound pastor and people for full twenty years must now be severed. During this long ministry, faithfulness and untiring energy have characterized all his labors.

The church, which has been remodled during the later years of his ministry reflects his careful supervision, as also does the well kept parsonage house and grounds.

The majority of members have been received into the church during Mr. Craig's pastorate. In many instances he has baptized infant children and, as they grew older, welcomed them into the communion of the church. He has officiated at many marriage ceremonies, and at more burial services. The best wishes of the entire congregation go with Mr. and Mrs. Craig.

CUPID LEAVES DOYLESTOWN.

Ministers Alarmed by Absence of Weddings for Two Months.

No marriage licenses have been issued for a Doylestown bride or bridegroom during the past two months, a condition never equaled since the marriage license law went into effect. This is made more unusual by the fact that Doylestown is reputed to have more pretty girls than any other town of its size in the State. It is said that some of the clergymen are preparing sermons advising matrimony.

Speculation is rife as to what has driven Cupid out of town. Doylestown, it is said, has more lodges and secret societies than any other place twice its size, and the girls are believed to be giving little encouragement to lodge members who seek their hearts.

He was hurried to the hospital, where it was found that he had a fractured skull and possibly internal injuries.

The voters of Trumbauersville, Bucks county, will decide by vote on February 28, the proposition to increase the indebtedness of the borough to the extent of $4000 for town improvements.

One of the first things to follow the increase in size of the area of North Wales will probably be an effort to divide the borough into two wards. The present enrollment is nearly 500 and it is expected to number about 525 when the enrollment of the new portion is completed.

MARIE CAHILL AT LYRIC

For a two week's engagement commencing Monday evening, February 13, the Lyric Theatre, Philadelphia, announces that goddess of fun, Marie Cahill in her latest New York musical comedy success "Judy Forgot," which is the production of Daniel V. Arthur, and the joint work of Avery Hopwood, author of Seven Days and Silvie Hein, composer of all Miss Cahill's mediums.

An unusual theme, bright lines, catchy music a chorus of sixty young and pretty girls and picturesque scenery give "Judy Forgot" an individuality all its own, while such well known players as Maud Meredith, Emma Francis, Arthur Stanford, Joseph Santley, James B. Carson, and W. H. St. James assure the quality of the supporting company. While dancing both chorus and that of Emma Francis and Joseph Santley, is a feature of the performance.

The locale of the piece is interesting Marienbad, Bohemia, the well known health resort. The story opens with a prologue an innovation in musical comedy, and it tells of a young bride with a naughty, though unintentional little wink, that gets her into trouble with her husband while on their honeymoon. She leaves him and, due to the shock of a railroad accident, she loses her memory. Then because she lays claim to another woman's husband and refuses to recognize her own, because she can't remember him, a series of complications and laughable situations ensue, that are only straightened out when an auto accident finally restores her memory.

The only matinee of the first week will be on Saturday.

The gilded youth feels that he is on his mettle if he is fashion-plated.

JOSEPH FRANKOWICK,

There is no remedy that will more quickly relieve any form of headache than
Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills.

The best feature of this remarkable remedy is the fact that it does not derange the stomach or leave any disagreeable after-effects.

NEW BRIDGE FOR YORK ROAD

Citizens See Mayor About Structure Near Hunting Park Avenue.

Mayor Reyburn favors the construction of a new bridge over the Reading Railway tracks on the line of Old York road south of Hunting Park avenue. A delegation from the Hunting Park Business Men's Association called on the Mayor last Monday to urge him to support the project.

"The first thing you should do," the Mayor replied, "is to get Councils to pass an ordinance for this work and then come to me. If it can be shown that this bridge is urgently needed, as you say, there will be then no difficulty about it. But I must be assured that the improvement is not in the interests of any land company's improvement scheme to whom the city may be required to pay heavy damages."

The delegation declared that the improvement was solely in the interests of residents and business men of the locality, besides being required for the safety of traffic on Old York road. The present bridge, it was said, was of the "camel humpback" order and too narrow.

FOUGHT FOR WHISKEY.

W. McCloskey and G. Murray, of Glenside, appeared at the Abington police station Sunday night and told a story of a daring hold-up in which they battled fiercely with five assailants near the northern boundary line of Jenkintown. Warrants were issued for the five accused men, Patrick Hennessy, G. Hand, J. O'Neill, W. Scott and G. Forsythe. Sergeants Lever and Ferguson and Patrolmen Kenney, McGee and Clarke made the arrests.

At the hearing it developed that the total loss sustained by the prosecutors was one partly-emptied bottle of whisky. The defendants were released.

We heard a man say the other morning that the abbreviation for February —Feb.—means Freeze every body, and that man looked frozen in his ulster. It was apparent that he needed the kind of warmth that stays, the warmth that reaches from head to foot, all over the body. We could have told him from personal knowledge that Hood's Sarsaparilla gives permanent warmth, it invigorates the blood and speeds it along through artery and vein, and really fits men and women, boys and girls, to enjoy cold weather and resist the attacks of disease. It gives the right kind of warmth, stimulates and strengthens at the same time, and all its benefits are lasting. There may be a suggestion in this for you.

How I Removed Pimples and Blackheads from My Face

"I have been bothered for a number of years with blackheads and pimples on my face. I have tried a number of remedies from physicians, with little or no improvement. More than a year ago I thought I would try Pinkham's Blood Purifier, and after taking it for a period of two months, I found a decided improvement. My face is now free from pimples and blackheads, and I cannot thank you enough for your wonderful remedy. I would be glad to let everybody know the benefit I derived from its use."—MRS. CHARLES B. ANDERSON, Box 52, Creston, Wash.

The most common indications of impure, impoverished blood are humors and eruptions, and they are usually the fore-runner of more serious consequences which come from an unhealthy state of the blood.

All that is necessary is a good, home treatment, frequent bathing, fresh air, wholesome, nutritious, easily digested food, and the regular use of Pinkham's Blood Purifier. In this way the blood is purified and enriched. Pimples, eruptions, and blackheads disappear and the complexion will become clear and healthy.

You may be perfectly sure that Pinkham's Blood Purifier is just as reliable as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Its makers could not risk their unequalled reputation among their vast army of friends by recommending a remedy that was not honest.

Members of the National German-American Alliance, who have made efforts to have a monument erected in Vernon Park, Germantown, to commemorate the founding of the first German settlement in this country, are elated over the passage by Congress of the appropriation bill for the erection of the monument.

It was stipulated that the German-American Alliance should contribute $25,000 to the fund and that Congress should do likewise. Already $17,000 has been raised by the alliance and the remainder has been pledged.

Of Interest To Farmers

POULTRY HINTS.

A local poultry raiser gives these hints:

A house 16 or 18 feet wide and 20 feet long will accomodate about 75 fowls.

Laying hens of the size of Leghorns require from 60 to 70 pounds of grain and beef scrape per head yearly. At the present prices for grain, this will cost about one dollar per fowl each year.

Give the fowls plenty of pure, fresh air without a draft. If the open window makes too much air directly upon the birds, try putting muslin in the place of every other glass window. This gives air but no direct current.

Green cut bone being highly concentrated must not be fed too liberally—about one-half ounce to each bird three times a week. Overfeeding of green bone is apt to produce leg troubles, diarrhea, bowel complaints and worms.

Young fowls, when properly fed and cared for and given free range in an orchard, will lay, at the very lowest estimate, ten dozen eggs per year. At an average price of 25 cents per dozen, these would be worth $2.50, or a profit, above the cost of feed, of $1.50 per hen per year.

Litter feeding is good for hens during the winter months, when they are confined to pens. Scatter the grain, such as corn, cracked or whole, wheat, etc., under the short straw, leaves or other litter, so that the hens must scratch to get it. The exercise keeps the hens healthy and increases egg production. If the litter is kept perfectly dry it does not become foul because the constant movement of it by the chickens keeps it well aired and no unpleasant odor results.

PROFITABLE APPLE CROP

A Progressive Bucks County Farmer Shows How Fruit Growing May be Done.

Joseph Carrell, of Neshaminy, one of Bucks county's most progressive farmers, has made considerable money from his apple crop this year. For example he has in one of his orchards 36 York Imperial apple trees, which are 11 years old, and from these trees sold $675 worth of apples, this fall and winter. This is only a portion of his sales and shows what can be done from 36 well cared for trees. Mr. Carrell sprays his orchard and otherwise looks after it, but you can see at a glance how well it pays.

Many railroad and land improvement companies of the far west have been advertising their land and inducing farmers to that section for the purpose of raising apples. The above statement shows that our farmers can do better by devoting their attention to raising fruit right at home, than to go off to some distant state and try the raising of fruit for a living.

Let every farmer who owns his own place plant a number of fruit trees each year and if they will spray them and care for them they will soon bring back large returns for the money and work invested.

All other crops, that a farmer raises require work and how can a farmer expect simply to plant fruit trees and without work pick from them large crops each year. The price of apples is now about the same as the price of oranges, and if it pays the growers of California and Florida to raise their fruit and ship it to the northern market, it surely should pay our farmers to grow apples and sell them in the Philadelphia market.

WILL GROW APPLES IN WEST.

Having determined to share in the prosperity that attends the development of the fruitgrowing country of the State of Washington, a party of young men will leave Germantown, about March 1, for Deer Park, in the Arcadia Valley, Washington. There they will assume the management of apple orchards of which they have become the owners.

The party will comprise the following, nearly all of whom were born and reared in Germantown: Thomas Edwards, Wilbur Rinker, Thomas Montaugue, William Bolay, John Davis, A. P. Kitson, W. Hemsley Avery, John Brewer, Harry J. Rauth, Albert McKinney, Harold Kitson, Charles J. Von Buckwald, H. Singleton, G. C. Loadwin, William Wister and Gilbert Weir.

SALARIES TO REPLACE FEES.

Pay of County Officials to be Changed if Bill Passes Legislature.

A bill designed to abolish the practice of renumerating county officials by fees and substituting therefore a graduated salary schedule was presented in the House at Harrisburg last Monday night by Representative Charles A. Bentley, of Washington county. Counties having a population less than 150,000 are affected by the act, as those containing over that population are already under salary laws. Fifty-six counties would come under the bill, as but eleven are now under salary acts.

Should the bill become a law it is estimated that the State revenues be considerably increased and the renumeration of fee officials be correspondingly reduced, as the fees over and above the amounts necessary for the payment of salaries are to be turned over to the State Treasurer.

Montgomery county, having a population of over 150,000 is not affected, but in Bucks county the salaries would be as follows: Sheriff, $3500; prothonotary, $3500; clerk of courts, $3000; register of wills, $3000; recorder of deeds, $3000; treasurer, $3500; county commissioners, each $1800; county auditors, each $300; coroner, $1200; county solicitor, $900.

BRIDGE WAITS ON CONGRESS

Reading's Important Work Depends on Nation's Lawmakers.

If Congress passes the bill introduced by Representative Wanger granting the North Pennsylvania and Delaware & Bound Brook Railroads permission to bridge the Delaware River, at Yardley, Bucks county, from Lower Makefield, Pa., to Ewing, N. J., the Reading, which controls both of the roads, will build a concrete arch bridge, costing approximately $400,000. The new structure is designed to replace the present iron structure at that point since the Bound Brook Railroad was built, and will be located immediately alongside of it. The plans are all prepared and it was the intention of the Reading officials to go ahead with the work this summer, when they discovered that it was necessary to get permission from Congress, as the bridge is an interstate one and over a navigable river.

Owing to the present short session of Congress and the important matters before it the bill may not reach its final passage, and this important work will have to be delayed. The new bridge will be a two-track structure, and of a design and construction similar to the Reading's concrete bridge over the Neshaminy.

TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH.

Every Bell telephone is a telegraph station and Bell subscribers, by saying "Telegram" to the operator, may be connected with a Western Union receiving office which will record their telegrams, night letters and cablegrams for transmission.

Arrangements have been so perfected that telegram charges will be included on the regular monthly bill rendered by the telephone company, instead of on a separate bill.

While running a circular saw on Saturday, Ex-Councilman Frederick Himmelwright, of Doylestown, had his nose broken by a flying piece of wood.

The pupils of the Lansdale High School are busy preparing for an elaborate entertainment to be given on Thursday evening, February 16.

Bodine Post, No. 306, G. A. R., of Doylestown, is minus their silk flag that was used at the funerals of comrades. Last week, when the Post attended the funeral of Evan Stover, at Neshaminy church, near Hartsville, the flag was forgotten, and was left on the coffin. The sexton, thinking that it was to be placed on the grave, fastened it down with stones and, one night a dog owned by the pastor of the church tore it in shreds. C. Howard Magill, Quartermaster of the Post, wrote to the janitor about the flag and received a letter telling of its destruction. The Post will be put to the expense of purchasing a new flag.

DEFER ORGANIZING OF TOWN COUNCILS.

The question as to whether or not borough councils should this year reorganize as heretofore on the first Monday of March, or whether the reorganization should be deferred until December, when the newly elected councilmen are seated, was discussed at Norristown on Friday, at a conference between the solicitors of the four largest towns in the county—Norristown, Pottstown, Conshohocken and Bridgeport. They decided there is no occasion to organize until December.

In the love-game, a woman always cries, "Never before!" a man, "Never again!"

Never try to succeed by unfair means. Experience proves that honesty is the best policy.

Popularity is like a sieve—It has to be fed continuously in order to have anything in it, and then it doesn't.

Trading umbrellas to advantage when the other fellow is away isn't a sure sign that you've good business instincts.

Some men are not satisfied to be the architects of their own fortunes unless they are constantly adding extensions.

The court at Norristown Monday morning apointed H. B. Weachter, Burgess of Lansdale, to succeed J. W. Harvey, deceased.

When a man tries to convince himself that a woman is nothing to him, it is a sign that she is beginning to be a whole lot more than he anticipated.

Never be satisfied with a work half done. Poor work soon becomes a habit, and weakens character.

A good deal of will power is won't.

When a man has done anything particularly atrocious he loves to go about calling himself a "fool;" It makes him feel so moral and injured and irresponsible.

Man was made from dust, woman from a bone, and nowadays the most popular men are those who have the "dust" and the most popular women those who resemble a bone."

Choosing a husband is like choosing a hat; it is so hard to find one that has style, beauty, usefulness and durability and yet may be got at your own price.

When you spend money on sensible things you are very anxious about what you are going to get out of it; when you spend it on foolish things you never think anything about that part of it.

A woman will spend her last dollar on beauty specialists and dressmakers in order to hold her husband; but a man considers that he has done his utmost to fascinate his wife if he pays fifteen cents every other day, for a shave.

When a man remains an old bachelor to the end of his days a romantic explanation is given. Some girl he loved years ago died in her youth or married some other man; but when a woman is always a Spin, all the gossip is about the men who got away.

When Chief Lever and his men investigated the charges, they found that the boys, in a spirit of devilment, held up two men, who were said to be half drunk, and took from them a half pint of whiskey. A deep gash was cut in one of his legs almost to the bone, nearly tearing the calf of his leg from the bone. The lad was hurried to the office of Dr. Peters, in Jenkintown, and afterward taken to St. Luke's hospital, in Philadelphia. The boy is about 12 years old and bore up like a soldier through the ordeal, never whimpering.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

The home of A. A. Nash, of Eureka, was the scene of quite a pleasant occasion on Tuesday, February 7th, 1911, where quite a number of relatives had gathered to help his mother, Mrs. Priscilla Nash, celebrate her 80th birthday. On account of the inclement weather some were prevented from coming. But those who came did all they could to make the occasion one not soon forgotten. All seemed to join in the pleasant spirit of the day. About 10.30 a. m. the guests began to gather and kept coming till afternoon. At two o'clock all were invited out to the spacious dining room, where a splendid dinner awaited them, consisting of all the delicacies of the season. Although Mrs. Nash is 80 years old, she still keeps young. She has all her faculties, her hearing is perfect and her eyesight by the help of glasses is good. She still sews and is as up-to-date as any one. The oldest persons there were Mrs. Nash, 80 years; Mrs. Maria Hoover, a sister, age 85 years; Mrs. Sarah Garner, a sister-in-law, age 83, and Lavi Garner, a brother, 78. These are the only members left of that generation. Mrs. Nash has still living 5 children, 28 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren. All together all assembled in the parlor to hear music, duets, solos, quartettes, etc., by the grandchildren. The most amusing part was the many funny reminiscences of Mrs. Nash's married life. All spoke praise of her. Her children testified to her goodness and kindness and one of her grand-daughters said she always held her grandmother up as a model cook and baker, to which all agreed was so. Rev. John Lentz and wife sang a beautiful duet, entitled, "Love Divine." He also gave a talk suitable to the occasion, which was enjoyed by all. This concluded the program.

Mrs. Nash received many useful and beautiful presents. She also received a bunch of beautiful pink carnations. The invitations were extended to the relatives only. Those present were Mrs. Priscilla Nash, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Nash, Eleanor, Muriel, Luther, Wilbur and Lucile Nash, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Nash, Leon and Margaret Nash, Mr. and Mrs. William Nash, Hannah and Clifford Nash, Mr. and Mrs. M. Steever, Norman, Hunter, Evelyn and Clara Steever, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Swartzlander, Misses Verna and Anna Steever, Mr. and Mrs. William Swartzlander, Cathryn Swartzlander, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Garner, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Garner, Mrs. Sara Garner, Mrs. Maria Hoover, Mrs. Clarence Templeton and son, Howard, Rev. John Lentz and wife, Mr. and Mrs. William Krout, Mr. and Mrs. John Steever, Myrtle and J. Warren Steever, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. MacNair, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hoover, Maria and Francis Hoover, William Imhoff.
